Useful Information

The Monument

The Temple of Karnak itself is actually made up of three main temples, several smaller walled temples and a large sacred lake. The three main temples are dedicated to Amun, his goddess wife Mut, and the god Montu. The museum contains a collection of statuary that was found throughout the temple complex.

Karnak Temple is reached by a grand avenue lined on each side with ram-headed sphinxes, originally nearly two miles long. Visitors then pass through the massive Hypostyle Hall, famous for its rows and rows of columns. The paint at the tops of the columns can still be seen today, thousands of years after it was applied by the careful brush of an ancient Egyptian painter.

This room is 54,000 square feet and has 134 columns, and to this day it is the largest room of any of the world's religious buildings. Queen Hatshepsut, who challenged ancient Egyptian history by becoming the first female pharaoh, was aware of how important Karnak was, and she had her thoughts inscribed on a towering obelisk: 'O ye people who see this monument in years to come and speak of that which I have made, beware lest you say, 'I know not why it was done'. I did it because I wished to make a gift for my father Amun, and to gild them with electrum.

Karnak Temple Sound and Light show information

Referred to as the world's largest open air museum, Luxor, known as Thebes in ancient times, is home to some of the most spectacular monuments of the ancient world, Perhaps one of the most astounding areas in Luxor is the temple complex of Karnak. The largest temple complex ever built by man, Karnak represents the combined achievement of many generations of ancient builders.

Passing through the gates of Luxor, every visitor is astounded by the expansive city made immortal by its gigantic monuments. Though much of Luxor and Karnak are in ruins, the site remains one of the crown achievements of ancient Egypt. The massive columns of Karnak once supported heavy ceilings, but today they are open to the sky. With a little imagination, the visitors of today can be transported back in time to the days of the pharaohs. Over a period of 1300 years, the temples built at Karnak became an entire city of monuments.

What the budget of this Tour?

Dear Clients please knows that the tour price cover the services stated in the “Inclusions” section only of this page.

What you needs?

Camera and a supply of film

What should I wear?

Please dress casually – jeans and flat heeled shoes. Although we usually land close to a road, you may be walking through fields. It is no colder in the balloon than on the ground, yet you may wish to bring a light jacket. Layered clothing is best

Where I will fly?

The Hot Air Balloon crew studies the prevailing winds at different elevations and selects a take-off site that will provide the best flight-path possible. The pilot ascends and descends to find air currents that are moving in the desired direction. Balloons can only travel with the wind, but our skilled pilots direct the balloon throughout the flight and it often appears as if the balloon was steered!

What does it feel like during the flight?

Once aloft you will not notice turbulence or wind as you become one with the air currents. The basket hangs motionless in the air-mass in which it is suspended. In the calm conditions in which we fly there is nothing that can make the basket sway and the sense of movement is much more subtle than an elevator ride. The feeling is one of peace as we drift over treetops and float over the countryside. Vertigo is almost never experienced and we are always happy to accommodate our passengers if they prefer low altitude flights. Some passengers describe the sensation they feel on our flights as “tranquil” and “romantic” while others describe the flight as “gentle and calm.

Do passengers sit or stand during the flight?

Passengers normally stand in the basket during flights; however the Hot Air Balloon Crew can accommodate those passengers who need to be seated.

When do we fly?

We fly early in the morning because this time of day provides calm, cool air for gentle and stable flights, soft landings and maximum lifting capacity of the balloon. It is also the ideal time for photography, with splendid colours and contrasts and the beauty of the sunrise.

What about weather conditions?

Before you fly, the Hot Air Balloon crew checks the weather. We can generally fly with wind speeds up to 10 miles per hour.

Do we fly if it's raining?

Light rain is not a problem when the wind conditions are stable, although we would not schedule a flight when rain was anticipated as it would add considerable weight to the fabric. Often rain can be associated with instability and unpredictable winds which is actually more disturbing to us as the volume of the balloon is so great. Cloudy conditions often give some of the best conditions for flying although the photographer might be disappointed.

Is it safe?

Balloon flight is as safe as traveling on an airliner operated by one of the world's major carriers. The technical systems are very simple and there is almost nothing that can go wrong. Many people who don't like the claustrophobia of an airplane feel very comfortable in the balloon basket.

Philae Temple Sound and Light show information

When Amelia Edwards, the famous British travel writer, first visited Philae in 1873, her captivating words about the experience still apply today: “The approach by water is quite the most beautiful. Seen from the level of a small boat, the island, with its palms, its colonnades, its pylons, seems to rise out of the river like a mirage. Piled rocks frame it on either side, or the purple mountains close up the distance. As the boat glides nearer between glistening boulders, those sculptured towers rise higher and even higher against the sky. All looks solid, stately, perfect. One forgets for the moment that anything is changed. If a sound of antique chanting were to be borne along the quiet air, if a procession of white-robed priests bearing aloft the veiled ark of the God, were to come sweeping round between the palms and pylons, we should not think it strange.”
